HEATWAVE WATER CRISIS

NO WAY HOSE

€125 FINE AS HOSEPIPES ARE BANNED FOR A MONTH

Ralph Riegel

IRISH Water has warned Dubliners to hang up their hoses.

A so-called "hosepipe ban" has been introduced in the capital to preserve water, as the country remains scorched by temperatures of 30C and higher.

Fines of up to €125 will be issued to anyone caught flouting the ban, using hoses for washing cars, filling paddling pools or watering the garden. Using a hose to wash a private leisure boat has also been banned.

The ban will remain until the end of July, with the country set to bask in Mediterranean conditions into next week.
